The exhibition Colorful Now showcases a global spectrum of artists who explore the emotional and narrative power of color. From bold abstractions to subtle realism, the show celebrates how color transcends language, culture, and technique to express ideas, provoke thought, and ignite the senses.

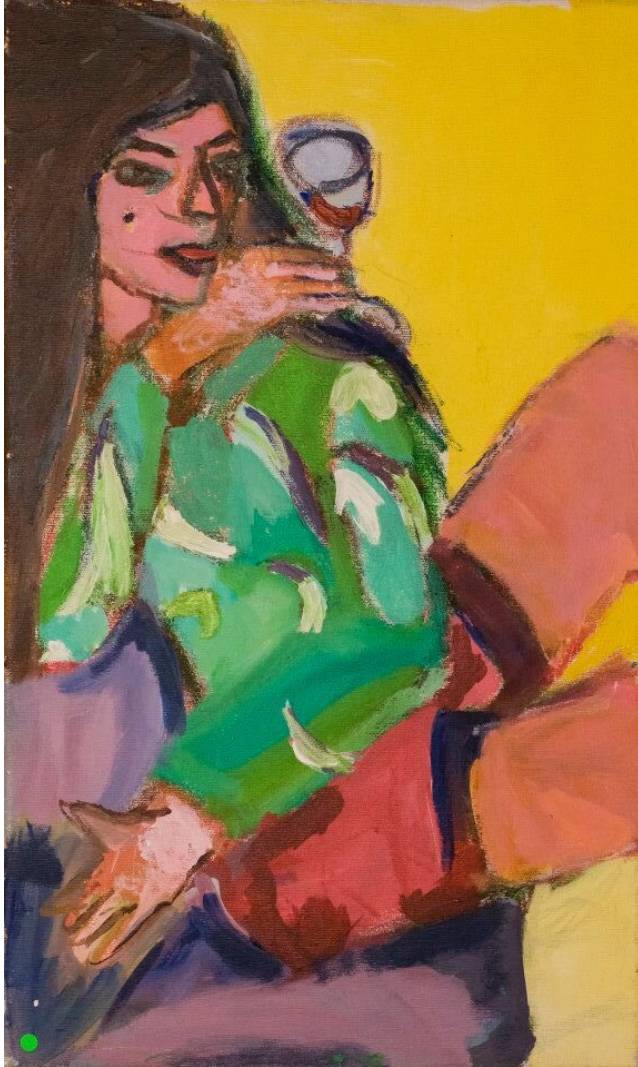

Curated from an international open call, the participating artists work across painting, digital art, photography, sculpture, collage, and mixed media. Their diverse styles and backgrounds create a vivid dialogue that reflects the many ways color shapes both artistic vision and human experience.

Each work in Colorful Now highlights color's transformative ability - whether through striking contrasts, layered textures, or carefully chosen palettes. The exhibition invites viewers to reflect on how color communicates mood, memory, and movement, offering a fresh and multifaceted view of contemporary art in a world that is anything but monochrome.
